Crowds rugged up and flocked to the inaugural City Market in Wellington in June, which offers local artisan products and producers.

Chef Martin Bosley and local businesswoman Rachel Taulelei created the line-up of regional products in a bid to bring passionate foodies closer to the people who make and grow local products.

The market is an opportunity to taste, talk to and buy from the people who know the most about the product, which ranges from terrine to beer, fruit and vegetables to wine and olive oil, Turkish delight to sausages.

The market runs every Sunday from 8.30am-12.30pm in the atrium at the Chaffers Dock Function Centre.
